Message From The Chairman.....

Make work a Celebration

A temple was under construction on the outskirts of a town. Some labourers were busy cutting stones. A passerby stopped to see what was being built. He goes to one of the labourers and asks “what are you doing?” The man was sad and serious, even looked angry with himself. Without looking at the visitor he said, “Don’t you see I am cutting stones?” The visitor moved to another labourer and asked the same question to him, “What are you doing?” This man looked sad too but was not angry. He put down his hammer and chisel, raised his eyes and said glumly, “I am earning my bread” and resumed his work.

The visitor moved to a third workman who was engaged in the same kind of work near the main gate of the temple. He was in a happy mood, singing. “What are you doing my friend” the passerby asked. “I am building a temple” replied the man in a pleasant voice flashing a smile and resumed his work and his singing.

All the three workmen are engaged in the same job, stone cutting but their attitude to work is quite different from one another. As far as the third workman is concerned, he has turned his work into a celebration. He can work and sing together.

We can abolish poverty through hard work and be affluent but we may still remain poor. Poverty of the spirit will not go until we turn our work into a celebration. When work becomes a celebration it will abolish both kinds of poverty – material and spiritual. The worker of a modern factory after seven hours of hard work returns home dog tired. His work is dull and listless like the work of a cook in a hotel. But when a home maker is cooking for her children and her husband or when a young woman is cooking for her lover who is coming to visit her, cooking is joyful, never dull or tiring.

I will expect all members of our Synergy family to make work a celebration.

Jai Hind
